

AAJ Launches Ad Campaign

As part of its campaign to fight medical malpractice as part of the health care bill, the American Association for Justice is launching its first round of advertising aimed at lawmakers and opinion-leaders in the DC area. These ads make clear that Congress should put patient safety first, and tort law changes won't fix health care.