ASSAULT WEAPON SHOOTINGS ATTORNEYS | ROMANUCCI & BLANDIN

Romanucci & Blandin is proud to fight for justice for those who have been traumatized, injured or families of those killed in mass shooting events, particularly those involving assault-style weapons.

Our mass shooting legal team is honored to fight for justice for survivors and families who lost loved ones in the Uvalde, Texas Robb Elementary School tragedy.

Our experienced assault weapon injury legal team is examining the facts closely in the Robb Elementary School mass shooting and is determining our legal strategy in this matter.

What happened in Uvalde, Texas on May 24, 2022, was deeply traumatic and should have never happened. The incredible people in the Uvalde have shown—and continue to show—amazing strength in the face of injury and loss, and we have heard over and over that there is a commitment to make sure this never happens again to another town, business, school, shopping mall or place of worship again.

That type of systemic change takes a fierce and steadfast pledge to pursue the assault weapons manufacturers, holding them accountable for what happened and demanding change to the relative ease of acquiring these guns. This critical change in our culture and communities will require both legislative reform and litigation – and Romanucci & Blandin has deep experience in both facets of change.

We believe one important component is legal action against the assault weapons manufacturers, and we plan on aggressively and compassionately pursuing a lawsuit on behalf of victims who were physically and, in some cases, tragically injured and emotionally traumatized by this unspeakable event.

The assault weapon injury lawyers at Romanucci & Blandin know how to navigate these complex cases and bring justice to victims, and sometimes settle these cases without going to trial. We have deep experience representing victims of mass shootings around the country and know how traumatic these events are for those involved and the people who love them.

With headquarters in Chicago, Romanucci & Blandin approaches a mass tort action or class action as a way to provide monetary compensation and hold a culpable person or institution financially accountable and responsible for the damages that have occurred to a large group of individuals or families while also pursuing non-economic changes to policies and laws to stop these tragedies from ever happening again.
