

Our Thinking: Justice & Results

Related Practice

Construction Injuries

$600,000 Settlement – Construction Accident

A male laborer was repairing a cable that held netting around the upper floors of the Trump Tower project when wind snapped a steel hook holding the cable. The plaintiff's jobsite-issued safety glasses did not fit properly, and allowed a piece of metal to penetrate his left eye. Despite surgeries, the plaintiff suffers from partial vision loss, double vision, and disfigurement.