Illinois shooting: protests after police kill Black teenager and wound woman

The Guardian | October 25, 2020

The protest in Waukegan, about 40 miles north of Chicago, was organized by Clyde McLemore, the founder of the Lake county chapter of Black Lives Matter. It took place less than a day after the police chief, Wayne Walles, announced the firing of the officer who fatally shot Marcellis Stinnette, a Black man, and wounded Tafara Williams, 20.
