

Our Thinking: In The News

Officers Involved in Daniel Prude Incident Won't Be Charged.

SCRIBERR | February 25, 2021

Ben Crump and Antonio Romanucci, attorneys who represent some of Prude's children said in a statement they are "deeply disappointed that the officers will not face criminal charges for killing Daniel Prude during what was clearly a mental health crisis as he lay naked in the cold streets with a spit hood they placed over his head."

The statement said the incident could have been avoided by proper training and common sense to treat Prude with compassion and efficient medical attention.

Read full article here