Third-degree murder charge could be reinstated for Derek Chauvin.

REVOLT Magazine | March 5, 2021

The appeals court wants Cahill to be consistent with his ruling in Chauvin's case as he was in Noor's case. It's not clear if Friday's ruling will cause a delay in jury selection for the trial, which is set to begin on Monday (March 8). According to the outlet, if the third-degree murder charge is reinstated, the prosecution's odds of getting a murder conviction could be increased.
