Tipping Point – How a Senior Paralegal Fortifies the Case for Police Misconduct Victims

November 2020

One of the attorneys on the case is Antonio M. Romanucci, a founding partner of the Chicago-based national trial practice Romanucci & Blandin, LLC, where Mirena Fontana (BPS '12) has worked since 2011. The firm is also representing other families seeking justice in police misconduct cases, some of which include the family of Daniel Prude, a Black man who died after being handcuffed, hooded and forcibly subdued by Rochester, New York police, and the family of Byron Williams, a Black man who was stopped for not having a bicycle light and died in police custody after repeatedly saying "I can't breathe."
